

SWEET AND SAFE—It's the custom in West Berlin for children starting school to receive cones of candy on the first day, perhaps to sweeten the long journey ahead. Also customary, and for a very practical reason, are bright yellow caps so that motorists can easily spot the young fry.

Mauled Model Is Back With Lion

NEW YORK (AP) — A model, who last month was mauled by a lion while posing with the animal, posed again Tuesday — alone.

Nell Theobald, 21, sat in a wheelchair as she left a hospital where she underwent plastic surgery on her left leg.

The lion attacked Miss Theobald April 8 during a publicity stunt at the National Auto Show.

She told newsmen she hopes to return to modeling and "start living again."

RFK Believes Ike's Idea Is Mistake

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy declared today it "would be a terrible mistake" for the United States to heed former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's suggestion for the possible U.S. transfer of nuclear weapons to European allies.

In an interview, the New York Democrat said "it would be a betrayal of our responsibility, which is greater than any other nation's since we created nuclear weapons, to spread them to other countries."

In separate interviews, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, former chairman of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., former secretary of the Air Force, also voiced objections to the Eisenhower suggestion.

Eisenhower, in a letter made public Saturday by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Rep. Ednam P. Kelly, D-N.Y., called for a "drastic" revision of the Atomic Energy Act that banned the transfer of nuclear weapons to other nations.

The former commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization wrote that he feels "we should seek authority to sell appropriate nuclear weapons to other governments, under special conditions and arrangements — to be approved by the NATO organization — that could operate effectively in the defense of Europe."

But Hickenlooper said he is "against selling or delivery of nuclear weapons to any other nation" and added: "Just as a bald proposition I would be against it."

Symington said he thinks the Soviet Union would respond to any U.S. transfer of nuclear weapons by pulling out of negotiations for a proposed nonproliferation treaty.

Hickenlooper called for amplification of Eisenhower's proposal. Jackson said a Senate Government Operations subcommittee he heads will go deeper into the matter in pursuing its current inquiry into NATO policies. "This nuclear problem is one that we are deeply concerned about," Jackson said, "because rightly or wrongly much of the (NATO) trouble involves it. My own view is that we should be very slow to make any changes in the basic system under which we are operating."

HOPE (ARR.) STAR, Printed by Ottom

Clothiers Don't Want Army Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has been using a form of compulsion to get clothing manufacturers to fill nearly one-fifth of its military uniform orders since last July, Pentagon figures showed today.

This is in contrast to past wars when contractors scrambled for government orders.

The reason, Pentagon officials said, is now there are no wartime controls to limit the amount of material which can be devoted to the civilian market.

In the past 10 months, the Defense Supply Agency said, procurement officials issued 218 "rated orders" for uniform items out of a total of 1,157 contracts.

A rated order is Pentagonese for an official action in which the government selects a firm it knows can do the work and requires the company to accept an order. The terms are negotiated.

Rated orders are used when not enough volunteers bid on military contracts. The compulsion is permitted under the Defense Production Act.

In one recent contract, 271 firms were invited to bid but only 10 submitted proposals. In another case, the government got three proposals out of 88 firms which were invited to take part.

"With many manufacturers geared to meet the needs of the civilian market," one DSA official said, "there has been some reluctance to shift to the military market."

Asked why the clothing industry is reluctant to step forward and accept defense business, the official said:

"Manufacturers understandably are reluctant to submit themselves to military specifications. It is easier for them to fill civilian orders than to meet military specifications. And they are in a position where they want to meet their civilian buyers' needs."

Did Exactly as He Was Ordered

ALPENA, Mich. (AP) — Mayor Walter Weinkauff was drawing a name from 3,000 entries in a contest Tuesday when a photographer looked up from his camera and said:

"See that you pull out a poor family with eight or nine kids." Weinkauff drew the name of Marie Deno.

Mrs. Deno not only is the mother of nine, but she is the wife of the man with the camera. Eugene (Skeets) Deno, general news editor of The Alpena News.

The prize: a free five-minute, shopping spree by the family in a supermarket.

Mrs. Deno quoted her husband as telling the mayor before the contest drawing, "We could clean the store out with my family. Why don't you pull out mine?"

Sophia Merely a Simple Neapolitan

NEW YORK (AP) — Sophia Loren may be a fiery actress on the screen and a sex symbol in the minds of millions, but she is "a very simple Neapolitan girl" at heart.

That's what she told reporters Tuesday when she arrived to attend a dinner at the Museum of Modern Art, where she is featured in an exhibition of photographs.

When a reporter suggested that she might be an unusually pretty Neapolitan girl, she offered a reply that may start a bachelors stampede to Italy.

"Thank you," she said. "But maybe you have never been in Naples."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

New Methods Revealing Many "Hidden Diabetics"

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Interest in diabetes has been steadily increasing as new methods for early detection of this disease are revealing many new cases. It is estimated that at least two millions persons in the United States have diabetes that has not yet been diagnosed.

Some communities are conducting screening programs to find these "hidden diabetics." In one area, 34 new cases were found in every 1,000 persons tested as compared with an average of 8.6 in other areas. This was accomplished by concentrating on high-risk groups such as relatives of known diabetics, women who have borne babies weighing more than 10 pounds at birth, persons who are more than 10 per cent over the normal weight for their height and persons who are over 60.

In this area the screening program was widely publicized and a free test for the blood sugar level was offered. No one was labeled a new case of diabetes until his family doctor had confirmed the diagnosis.

Early detection coupled with proper treatment is an important means of preventing serious complications of this disease such as blindness, gangrene of the toes, neuritis and coma.

Q—I have only one kidney and it is not too good. I also have high blood pressure. My doctor has given me many kinds of water pills but they all aggravate my gouty arthritis. For the gout I take colchicine which in turn causes severe diarrhea. To cure this I take paregoric. I feel like I'm riding a medicinal merry-go-round. What do you advise?

A—A large group of this-zides are now widely used as diuretics. They will not cause gout but they will aggravate it. If your joint pains cannot be controlled by reducing the dosage of this type of water pill, you might try spironolactone or triamterene. These are obtainable only on a doctor's prescription.

The modern drug for gout is probenecid. It should not cause diarrhea but this or any other drug you might take could have unpleasant side effects unless the dosage is carefully adjusted to your needs.

Q — Is Triavil habit-forming? Are there any bad side effects?

A—Side effects from this tranquilizer are rare but may include eczema, shortness of breath, waterlogging and convulsions. Anyone who is taking this drug should have periodic blood counts and liver function tests. It is not habit-forming.

A coat button once saved the life of George Frederick Handel, the famous composer. In his youth, Handel and another musician fought a duel and Handel's life was saved because his opponent's sword struck a button on his coat.

Old Soldier
Editor The Star: Do you remember publishing a story about Interstate 30 running over the grave of a Revolutionary Soldier about two years ago? Mr. Louis Graves of The Nashville News suggested that I write to you and ask you.

On April 23, 1964, Mrs. Nathan Coulter and I went to Arkadelphia to try to locate the grave of Morgan Cryer, Sr., a soldier of the Revolution who was buried near Arkadelphia. After learning that all Clark County records prior to 1842 had been thrown into a well, we were advised to call Mr. Farrar Newberry. As soon as I had finished telling Mr. Newberry what I was trying to do, he told me that Interstate 30 had run over the grave and asked me if I had seen the story he wrote about it two weeks previously. He said it had been published in the Herald and my impression was that it was a feature story. Unfortunately we did not go over to the Herald office that day and Mr. Newberry's memory has subsequently become very hazy on the matter. Those who have been trying to locate the article in the files of the Herald during the last three weeks have been unable to do.

About a month after we were in Arkadelphia, we went down to Lewisville in LaFayette County and were told thereby the county clerk that he had read the article in THE Hope Star. He said it appeared with an Arkadelphia date line and we assumed that it was a reprint of the Newberry article.

The soldier would not appear as Morgan Cryer, Sr., in the article. After the tombstone fell forward and was covered over, people forgot the name of the soldier, but because his tombstone had stated that he was a soldier of the Revolution, they continued to remember that. The day after I talked to Mr. Newberry, Mrs. Frank Gerig talked to Mrs. Barkman and was told by her that the grave was positively that of Morgan Cryer, Sr. The Cryer land adjoined the Barkman land. Actually, no other Revolutionary soldier was even supposed to have been buried near Arkadelphia. The DAR wishes to place a marker as near the exact site as possible and we feel the article would be of great help in pinpointing the spot. If you remember the article we were told was published in The Star or can find it and furnish a certified copy of it, we will be most grateful. We simply cannot understand why the article published in Arkadelphia cannot be found. Very truly yours,

MISS JAMIE MCCONNELL

Editor The Star: After the completion of the Bois D'Arc Lake and Hunting Reservation, the Arkansas Game & Fish Commission, gave to the Hempstead County Wildlife Association the part of the Lake Front, on the Goose Pond Landing, just below Kidd's Store and Boat Landing, known as the Point.

The Hempstead County Wildlife Association in developing this area for public use, has built a pavilion building, at a cost of over five hundred dollars installed a large vapor light, two rest rooms, placed trash cans in convenient places, cleaned the entire area for picnicking and camping, placed fifteen large picnic tables, with twelve of these tables being donated to Wildlife Association by interested individuals. The vapor light mentioned above is on all of every night, with a plug-in for ground uses, this cost is paid each month by the Wildlife Association the year around.

This Association is glad to have been able to furnish these services and conveniences on Lake Bois D'Arc for citizens of Hope, Hempstead County, and surrounding area for fishing and recreation pleasures, but wish to call to their attention that on some occasions there has been some carelessness in keeping the area cleaned up, and proper care of these facilities.

The Hempstead County Wildlife Association desires to continue to improve this Point recreation area for public use, but will be necessary for all who use these facilities to cooperate in every way possible to keep this area clean and see that proper care is taken while using this area. Thanking you for your cooperation, I remain, Respectfully yours,

Ben D. Edwards,
President Hempstead

HELEN HELP US!

Youth Asked For It!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off. Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! this newspaper.

On Pitches And Passes

Dear Helen: I usually admire your advice, but the word you gave to "Gone on Him" was really gone! Of course this will never be printed because it is contrary to your psychology and might leave your archaic viewpoint a little aghast, but if "G. O. H." rejected every boy who made three passes, she'd end up an old maid. Now I'm not saying she has to submit to his passes, but any guy who stops making them should be ostracized from the male race and have his head examined!

Please don't tell me I'm evil or something because the nicest guys in the world are only normal males who will be making passes for years to come. As for arousing an argument and his smiles, I don't blame him for laughing when she tried to explain her stand. If there's anything that makes the situation seem more farcical and ridiculous and make the guy feel like a real fool, it's talking it over.

My advice — use discretion and prudence (not prudishness) and above all — Play It Cool! (Not cold.) — A Normal Guy

Dear Guy: You may be a normal guy, but you're definitely not the answer to a mother's dream. We parents of teenage girls like to think boys who date them know a "No" means "No" — H.

P.S. If a girl doesn't stand on "Three slaps and you're out," she may REALLY Strike out on the fourth pitch. I think your intentions are as a honorable as a spitball in Yankee Stadium.

Teen Boost Of The Month Club
Tammy Knight, red-haired, freckled faced and five, doesn't know that she will soon die. But she DOES know life is wonderful because Mickey Mouse at "Busylund" (her word for Disneyland) and Flipper at Marineland are her extra-special pals.

Doctors say the little leukemia victim has less than a year to live. Unaware, Tammy smiles happily as she remembers the fun and excitement of "Busylund." To visit there had been her fondest dream, but "life saving" in her piggy bank some how didn't stretch.

Then teenagers in the Fremont, California, area learned about Tammy. They staged a "Block of Dimes" contest; two groups, the Youth Service Corps and Counsellors in Training, trying to see who could collect the longest line of coins. They had a door-to-door fund raising drive. They worked like... well, like teenagers work when they have a CAUSE.

So Tammy and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Knight of Union City, California, spent a weekend at Disneyland last month, and extra money the teens collected, some $3,000 in all, went to St. Jude Research Hospital in Tennessee to help leukemia-doomed children everywhere. Each year they join in the ALSAC (Aiding Leukemia Stricken American Children) campaign but this year the drive had a personal meaning. The kids had Tammy and her dream.

As things turned out, Walt Disney made the Knights special guests of Mickey Mouse. Tammy's favorite character.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
CANNES, France (AP) — Having witnessed the tribal customs of the American film community, I felt obliged during a European visit to observe the ritual of the international film festival.

The biggest and most prestigious of the festivals is the one at Cannes, so I dropped in on one day's events of the festival's 20th year.

And where were all the starlets in bikinis, or less? That traditional element was lacking. In its place was a fully clothed Rock Hudson.

The occasion was a showing of Rock's new Paramount picture, "Seconds," and he had interrupted a motor tour through Europe to attend the festival. He enjoys such functions about as much as he likes to fill up his income tax. But he also owns part of the picture and he arrived at the Nice airport smiling.

His festival baptism came at a luncheon staged in his honor at Eden Rock, the swank resort at Cap d'Antibes. There he was greeted by 200 reporters of many nations and by Sophia Loren, who was president of the jury committee and takes her duties seriously.

He endured endless questions in a variety of languages until he finally insisted that he be allowed to finish his cold cuts before facing another interview. "Seconds" was shown that night at the Festival Palace. The afternoon showing for the press and others had not gone well, and as a gag, Rock showed up with a golden horseshoe to indicate his wish that the night performance would be better received. He also brought actress Pamela Tiffin, who wore a frightened smile as she faced the photographers. They seemed to number several hundred. Directed in stark style by John Frankenheimer, "Seconds" seemed like new-wave Hollywood. The audience found the film slow and overwrought and there were intermittent whistles of discontent. But the audience obviously liked Rock, personally and professionally, and he was greeted with applause as he departed.

"Seconds" was snubbed by Miss Loren and her fellow judges when the prizes were handed out. But its dramatics may serve to convince the film world that Rock Hudson can do something besides court a coy Doris Day.

Billiards were introduced into the United States by Spanish settlers in St. Augustine, Fla., in 1565.

Fakirs—the word means "needy person" in Arabic for man's spiritual need of God—are common to all creeds in India. They are usually regarded as holy men who possess miraculous powers, such as walking on fire. They are not influential in urban areas since the industrial revolution and the spread of education, but in the interior and in the villages they still retain some hold over the people.

Double Reveals West's Strength

By JACOB & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A letter from Brooklyn reads in part: "I must be the unluckiest player in the world. I made a trap pass over the opening no-trump and was rewarded by getting a chance to double three no-trump at my next turn. I opened my king of spades and waited to cash in. Instead, my opponent ducked two spade leads, won the third, led a heart and finessed dummy's jack. Next came five club leads and I had to throw away a spade on the last one. Then South knocked out my ace of diamonds. I took one more spade but that wasn't enough to set the contract."

We do agree that our correspondent was unlucky. It took the combination of a five-card club suit, the ace of hearts in back of his king and excellent play by South to bring home the doubled game but we don't sympathize too much with him.

He just made a bad double. A lot of people will think that if a man doesn't double with that West hand he should never double, but this is not so.

West violated one of the most important principles of bidding. That is, never double when you jeopardize the setting trick.

If West had not doubled the chances are that South would not have tried the heart finesse but would simply have knocked out the ace of diamonds after winning the third spade and hoped that spades would be 4-4 or that East would hold the ace.

Strangely enough West would have had a very good double without the king of hearts and would have picked up a 300-point penalty.

Start of Big Speedway More Complicated

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — In the first Indianapolis 500-mile auto race in 1911, the drivers lined up according to times entries were filed and simply chugged away to about 75 miles per hour until they finished, blew an engine or wrecked.

The 50th running of the Memorial Day classic on Monday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be more complicated. Drivers already will have spent a month in time trials and other preliminaries, including enough social events to exhaust a dowager duchess.

Most of the dinners and luncheons are sponsored by oil and accessory firms whose competition, if not more intense than the drivers, at least is spread over a longer period.

Fantastic amounts of money reportedly are spent to persuade a car owner and driver to use a particular product, especially among potential winners. In addition, about $200,000 in special prizes is offered for cars using the donors' oil additive, tires, sparkplugs and the like.

Close-up views of the 33 race cars reveal they are almost covered with decals showing what shock absorbers, water hoses and other accessories they use. This makes for a quick check after the race to determine the special awards for which they qualify.

Nicklaus Heads Field in Oklahoma

By BILL LITTLE
Associated Press Sports Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — A field of 144 golfers headed by Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and seven winners on this year's PGA tour, were set to tee off today in the $57,000 Oklahoma City Open at Quail Creek Golf and Country Club.

Nicklaus and Player are making their first appearances in the eight-year-old tournament. Tourney officials are claiming their own little Tournament of Champions with the entrance of the winners of seven tourneys this year. Besides Nicklaus, who won the Masters, the field includes Bruce Devlin, the champ at last week's Colonial National Invitational.

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Willard Smith, basketball coach at Fayetteville High School, has been named head basketball coach at College of the Ozarks, it was announced Wednesday.

Smith succeeds Sam Starkey. Smith is a graduate of Arkansas Tech. At Fayetteville, his teams posted 101-55 record in six years.

Flood's Grand Slam Aids in Cardinal Win

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Two weeks before he was fired as Houston general manager, Paul Richards decided to make a trade to bolster the Astros' Oklahoma City farm club, purchasing Dave Nicholson from the Chicago White Sox.

It was a big mistake. Nicholson hasn't done a thing for Oklahoma City.

But Nicholson has been doing a thing or two with National League pitching, raising his average to .333 Wednesday night when he led the Astros to a 7-1 victory over the New York Mets by collecting a homer, a double, two singles, driving in two runs and scoring twice.

Ticketed for Oklahoma City during spring training, Nicholson cut down on the swing that brought him four major league strikeout records and a .203 lifetime batting average, started to connect more often and grabbed a job with the Astros.

"He has done it all himself," said Houston Manager Grady Hatton. "I just told him to forget the home runs, just hit the ball."

Nicholson has followed orders. He has collected 25 hits in 75 at-bats for his .333 average, taken over fifth place in the National League batting race and still displayed power with 4 doubles, 2 triples and 3 homers.

Elsewhere, Curt Flood rapped the biggest hit of the night, a grand slam homer as St. Louis clubbed the Chicago Cubs 9-1, Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 3-2, the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Philadelphia 2-1 and Cincinnati defeated Atlanta 6-2.

In the American League, Cleveland thumped Detroit 13-2, the Chicago White Sox edged Baltimore 3-2, Minnesota downed Boston 7-5 in 10 innings, the New York Yankees walloped California 11-6 and Kansas City took Washington 3-1.

Flood capped a seven-run seventh inning uprising for the Cardinals after Bob Tolman had put them ahead 2-1 in the fifth inning with a run-producing single. Flood's grand slam followed a two-run pinch hit single by Bob Skinner and a wild pitch by Ted Abernathy that let another run score.

Matty Alou and Manny Mota turned on their former San Francisco teammates, slugging homers in the third inning off Bob Shaw for all of the Pirates' runs. Don Schwall and Roy Face combined to check the Giants on four hits, although each was tagged for a homer by Willie McCovey.

Chris Short, looking for his eighth straight victory at Dodger stadium, had the Dodgers' shutout on six hits when Bill White's error opened the door with one out in the ninth. Lou Johnson's single and a walk to Ron Fairly loaded the bases, and one out later, Wes Parker stroked a two-run single that brought Don Drysdale the victory.

Milt Pappas recorded his fourth straight complete game victory for the Reds by holding the Braves to five hits. Cincinnati pulled ahead with a three-run sixth built on Art Shamsky's sacrifice fly and two errors by second baseman Woody Woodward, each allowing a run to score.

Mantle Homers Power Yanks to Victory

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam McDowell wasn't able to continue. Tom Kelley wasn't ready to take over. And Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts wasn't about to give in.

But Kelley came in. Tebbetts gave in and the Detroit Tigers moved in.

The Indians crushed the Tigers 12-2 Wednesday night despite the early departure of McDowell and Tebbetts' protest over reliever Kelley's lack of warm-up time.

McDowell, 4-1 on the year but winless since May 1, left the game in the second inning after straining a muscle in his pitching shoulder. Kelley was rushed in and retired the side, then returned to hit bullpen while the Indians were at bat.

The umpires called him back, however, and Tebbetts lodged his protest.

"They told me there was a memo put out this winter which said a pitcher could not warm up in the bullpen while he was in the game and his team was batting," the Cleveland manager said afterward. "I never saw it. I can't see any reason for it there is such a rule."

The rhubarb became academic when Kelley proceeded to tame the Tigers on five hits while the Indians were pounding three Detroit pitchers 12-2, including four singles by Chico Salmon and homers by Leon Wagner and Don Crandall.

Kelley, a 22-year-old rookie, did not yield a hit until Norm Cash singled with two out in the fifth and breezed to his second victory without a loss.

The victory increased the Indians' American League lead to 3½ games over the second place Tigers.

At New York, Mickey Mantle hit two homers in one game for the first time since August, 1964, driving in five runs and powering the Yankees to an 11-6 victory over California.

Elsewhere, Minnesota beat Boston 7-5 on Jimmie Hall's two-run homer in the 10th, snapping the Red Sox' winning streak at six; Chicago edged Baltimore 3-2 and Kansas City trimmed Washington 3-1.

In National League play, Cincinnati whipped Atlanta 6-2, St. Louis slugged Chicago 9-1, Houston battered New York 7-1, Los Angeles nipped Philadelphia 2-1 and Pittsburgh topped San Francisco 3-2.

Mantle rapped a two-run homer off loser Dean Chance in the first inning and hit his fourth of the year with two aboard in the sixth, giving him a lifetime total of 477 and eighth place on the all-time homer list. He went into the game tied with Stan Musial.

Two-run doubles by Elston Howard and Roger Repoz helped the Yankees record their high run total for the season and nail their sixth victory in the last seven games.

Hall homered off Red Sox reliever Dick Radatz in the 10th after a one-out walk to Harmon Killebrew. The Red Sox had scored twice in the seventh and then tied it in the ninth on Carl Yastrzemski's two-run double.

Killebrew belted a two-run homer and starting pitcher Jim Kaat delivered two more Minnesota runs with a pair of singles.

The White Sox, who had dropped eight of their previous 10 games, scored two runs in the seventh on a poor throw by Baltimore catcher Adny Etchebarren and a balk by pitcher Steve Barber for their margin over the Orioles. John Romano homered for Chicago in the second inning.

Five Kansas City pitchers stopped the Senators on three hits' while Ed Charles' first homer of the season triggered a three-run rally in the sixth. Jim Dickson, Lew Krausse, Paul Lindblad and Jack Aker pitched hitless relief over the final 3 1-3 innings, preserving Fred Talbot's second victory.

POINTING THE WAY

Losers' Syndrome Stirs Williams

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

WASHINGTON, D.C.—NEA—The last recorded participation of Edward Bennett Williams in an athletic event was the night he pushed Norman Mailer in the pool at Hugh Hefner's town house, following the Patterson-Liston fight in Chicago.

Ed came close again last year when he stood on the sidelines of a Washington Redskins game and orated on the ancestry of the football officials. The rhetoric was atypical nothing like the calculated Edward Bennett Williams style in a courtroom when he's defending Jimmy Hoffa, Frank Costello, Bobby Baker or one of the McGuire sisters.

With the Redskins' of course, there's an emotional involvement. Williams is the club president, executor of the controlling stock and runs the team. He removed himself to an upstairs box, where his feelings weren't quite as visible, when he sensed this predilection, his own word, for munging in the action. He didn't become the most hated trial lawyer in the United States by his reticence.

After Williams moved into control of the Redskins a year ago, following the death of Leo DeOrsey, he attended his first league meeting determined to act as a demure neophyte. During an owner debate, however, he interrupted, "I'm not accustomed to singing in the choir the first time I go to church, but..."

Right then Ed Williams took his place among the ruling clique of professional football, and sometimes he's bound to ask himself, "Who needs it?"

It's easy to understand why some of the other young mil-

between you'n'me

lionaires in the game bought a team. They had their $50 million or so, but who ever heard of them before? Williams didn't need the ego factor. He's already famous for his courtroom achievements, a card-carrying celebrity.

"I happen," he explained simply over two soft-boiled eggs at breakfast, "to love sports."

Based in Washington since the end of World War II, Ed suffers from the same losers' syndrome that affects all sports lovers there.

"The Redskins," he smiled, "haven't had a winning season since 1955 or won a title since 1945. The Senators haven't won since 1933."

And Williams sees a chance to change the order of things. The Redskins lost last year, too, with him in charge. "But," he said, "that one doesn't belong to me."

He fired Bill McPeak as coach and general manager ("Toughest day I spent in my whole life," he said), installed Otto Graham as the new head man and doesn't give a damn that Otto wasn't particularly popular in other segments of the National Football League.

"I'm not running popularity contests," said Williams. "They'd want me to hire Mike Nixon. They'd stand up and cheer and then they'd knock our brains out. I wouldn't hire any man who wanted the job. I wanted the job to hire the man."

Williams' biggest problem is reconciling his two lives. "The lawyers (at Williams, Wadden & Stein) look at me," he said, "and ask, 'Are you going to be a lawyer?' And the football owners wonder, 'Are you going to be a president?'"

"I think I can be both. Pro football is a complete change of pace for me. I've shut out everything. Some guys play golf. I have my law, my Redskins, my family and kids. Nothing else."

Not even a profit motive for his dual existence. "Pro football," he continued, "has reached a highest plateau of revenue, with shrinking profit margin. We can't sell more tickets. TV sponsors won't pay more than $70,000 a minute."

And how does it affect him personally? "Disastrous."

He meant his Redskins earnings are one eighth of what he makes as a lawyer. And the job can be restricting. He sat through the recent NFL spring meeting hearing presentations by seven cities for an expansion franchise.

Never been so tired in my life," he sighed. "Just sitting there listening. You know I don't get tired of talking."

Toughness Stabilizing Viet Nam

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The one hope for stability in South Viet Nam at this time seems to be iron-fisted toughness, not democracy, and it may long remain that way.

The American ideal of the good society in Viet Nam would be a democratic one. But events over the years — particularly recent events — throw doubt on the readiness of the Vietnamese for democracy. They never had it.

One government after another was swept out by plots, ambitions, and protests, especially by Buddhist leaders, until the present group of generals took over under Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

He promised elections and a constitutional government within a year. This didn't satisfy the Buddhist leaders. In trying to throw him out, they revolted at Da Nang.

This revolt, judging from what happened, was poorly planned and badly organized. Although Buddhists make up 80 per cent of the population, in the showdown they lacked mass support. Ky used the army to crush the uprising.

Unrest continues in the northern city of Hue and, to some extent, among Buddhists in the capital of Saigon. But Ky, according to reports from Saigon, is confident he can quell this kind of opposition.

Richard Critchfield of the Washington Evening Star, writing out of Viet Nam, has presented a disgusting picture of the Da Nang Buddhists who wanted a hand, and no doubt eventual control, in running the government.

He describes them as a bunch of callous, cold-blooded, merciless opportunists who exploited the dead and the wounded for their own ends. He writes of their "incredible cynicism toward human life."

His story — of how the Buddhists enticed newsmen into their pagoda and then tried to use them as hostages against attack by Ky's troops — reveals how the Buddhist rebels lost their zeal for revolt under fire.

For days, he said, Buddhists had shot into neighborhood houses and then collected the wounded and killed and paraded them before the press as victims of government repression.

Yet, these are the same men who have been demanding constitutional government. Their performance was irresponsible and cruel. It is still not clear whether they are in league with the North Vietnamese Communists.

If Ky goes through with his plans for a democratic government, the Buddhist leaders will want a large and no doubt dominant role in it. But it hardly seems possible after the disclosures at Da Nang that they want a democratic government or any kind of government — but a Buddhist dictatorship.

Therefore, it should not be surprising if Ky and the generals refuse to let the elections occur within a year or for some time afterward because the Buddhist leaders project a vision not of order but of anarchy.

One thing is sure: The U.S. war against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Communists cannot continue if South Viet Nam disintegrates much further into the kind of brainless disorder the Buddhist leaders sought.

It is a connection between the Buddhist leaders and the Communists it may begin to show up if Ky restores stability to South Viet Nam. So long as the Buddhists revolted, the Reds could hope for internal collapse.

That would have saved them a need for a total showdown with the United States. If there's no internal collapse they will have to rely on war.

2.4 Miles on No. 4 to Be Repaved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Highway Commission programmed 12 highways betterment projects totaling $1,156,070, approved 15 contracts on larger road jobs totaling $854,339 and opened bids and awarded $1,336,601 in contracts on six other projects Wednesday.

In still another action, the commission said it is considering filing suit against some oil firms to recover about perhaps $2 million in overpayments for liquid asphalt.

The 15 contracts on larger road jobs were awarded by a purchasing committee made up of several highway Department employees.

The purchasing committee was re-created after the resignation of Mack Sturgis as highway director on March 31. Wayne Hampton, Highway Commission chairman, said the procedure of using the committee "had more safeguards."

On the asphalt charges, Hampton said the commission might retain attorneys to take over the case. He did not name any oil firms.

In Missouri, eight oil firms and 17 individual officers of the firms were indicted by a federal grand jury, and later fined a total of $609,500. In addition, Missouri recovered $2 million in settlements with the liquid asphalt suppliers, who were charged with price fixing.

Similar charges are pending in Kansas.

Rewrite of Winnie Pooh for Children

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP) — They're rewriting Winnie the Pooh—for children.

For 42 years—since the late A.A. Milne wrote the first Winnie the Pooh books—many literate persons have been under the impression that Milne wrote for children.

In fact, he wrote with one particular child in mind, his son, Christopher Robin Milne.

Now 45, Christopher Milne says: "I was 5 when the first book came out. I had no trouble understanding it."

Responsible for the rewrite is a British publishing company, Young World Products. It is bringing out eight Pooh books—six of them rewrites—to "provide an opportunity for the mass market to meet Winnie the Pooh."

The new editions will be, officially, books from the film in which Walt Disney made Winnie a movie star.

Rosemary Garland, a children's author who is doing the rewrite on Pooh, said:

"I think that Milne's very adult. Many of his Poohisms are a very sophisticated form of humor. I'm abridging Milne's sentences."

The rewriting cuts the original text by 90 per cent, according to Peter Belbin, a director of the publishing firm.

For example, Milne's story about piglet covers eight full pages of text taking up several thousand words. The abridged edition tells the story in 28 pages, but each page has only 20-40 words beneath a large illustration.

Opposition Waiting Out DeGaulle

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle is riding firmly the seat of power, but off in the political wilderness his opposition is struggling to prepare for the day when he will step down.

There is little now to give the lie to De Gaulle's old prediction: "After me, a mess!" — Apres moi, la pagaille.

Trying now to form ranks for the day when De Gaulle goes are two main groups with fuzzy-sounding names and even fuzzier support. One is led by an old political hand, Francois Mitterrand, and the other by a Kennedy-style politician, Jean Lecanuet.

Mitterrand's group is called the Democratic and Socialist Federation and Lecanuet's is labeled the Democratic Center.

Considerable opposition voting polarized around the two men in the presidential election campaign late last year. Mitterrand came in second in the first round of voting and Lecanuet was a strong third. The two forced De Gaulle into a runoff round which he had no real trouble winning. But the Gaulists got a shock and they are worried that they might lose their parliamentary majority in elections to be held perhaps about a year from now.

If either Mitterrand or Lecanuet can paste together enough voter strength to blunt or knock out the Gaullist parliamentary majority, he would obviously be in line as a strong presidential contender. De Gaulle took office in January for a 7-year term but he will be 76 in November and he could step down before 1973 if he decides his mission is completed, or if his health fails.

Mitterrand, Lecanuet and others want to be ready for any such development. It is far from sure they can keep their troops together or enlarge their ranks significantly.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana radio broadcast today a request by the government Electric Power Agency that householders use current sparingly in hours of greatest demand.

Rockefeller Enthusiastic in Campaign

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Selmon does a defeated candidate come out of a campaign with as much or more enthusiasm for the next race as the winner.

Winthrop Rockefeller did. Hours before harassed election judges finished the tally of his 1964 defeat by Gov. Orval Faubus, Rockefeller announced as a 1966 candidate.

He filed on the Republican ticket in February when many still believed that his Democratic opponent would again be Faubus.

Now he must wait until July 26 or perhaps Aug. 9 to find out which of eight Democratic candidates he will oppose in November.

But he cannot wait until then to plan his campaign.

Actually, the planning has been going on for months. While Faubus was the main target of Republican criticism during 1965, the Rockefeller organization remained aware of the possibility that he might not run and gauged its strategy accordingly.

"I'm running against an organization, not an individual," Rockefeller said in an interview.

Rockefeller noted before Faubus bowed out that if the governor did not run, the candidates might get to discuss the issues in this year's election.

The 1964 race, Rockefeller said, was a personality contest. He said Faubus "perpetrated 41 lies or half truths" but dropped them after a couple of tries because Rockefeller did not rise to the bait.

Rockefeller rose to the bait once and the result was disaster. That was when Faubus accused him of being a cemetery wrecker in the Robinson Cemetery affair.

At a critical stage of the campaign, Rockefeller's people spent several days trying to refute the charge. They realized now that it should have been ignored or dismissed.

Rockefeller said the cemetery charge had more impact than his organization expected. Rockefeller confesses that his forces made six or eight major blunders in the campaign and that these probably cost enough votes to beat him.

His team is geared to avoid such mistakes this year and Rockefeller believes he will run a stronger race. He is unimpressed by Democratic fight talk that he got as many votes in 1964 as he'll ever get. "We'll be stronger this year," he said. "For one thing, I've learned, and I'll be a better candidate."

Other factors he believes will lead to success:

"The steady growth of the GOP has spread county organization into at least 70 counties. —Rockefeller's concept of regional planning have been finalized and put into terms that the layman can understand.

—There are several hundred Republican candidates over the state who can help him as much as he can help them.

"I have more enthusiasm for this campaign because I'm a better-equipped candidate with a better product to sell," Rockefeller said. "At this time in 1964 I thought we had a fighting chance. In 1966 there is every indication that we have victory in sight."

Rockefeller said he is trying to give his campaign a broader financial base this year. He spent a great deal of his own money in 1964 — Faubus said about $2 million — but he believes that broadly based financing will help him at the polls.

"A man who buys an interest in your campaign is a lot better worker than one who is just paying lip service," Rockefeller said.

He said that he will try to keep himself out of the state and county Republican organizations. His involvement caused party dissension in 1964, ending in a feud between Rockefeller and William Spicer of Fort Smith, the party chairman.

Harmony has been the keynote in Republican affairs since Spicer resigned. Democrats charge that this is because Rockefeller is in complete control of the party apparatus.

Prepared for Democratic charges that he will not be a full-time governor, Rockefeller says that, if elected, he will turn most of his business interests over to the subordinates and will resign most of the board memberships and chairmanships that he holds.

This doesn't mean that he will stick in Arkansas as Faubus has done through most of his 12 years in office.

"I'll be making a lot of trips in the interest of industrialization for Arkansas," he said. "I'll be mending some of the fences in the industrial development field that badly need mending."

Rockefeller said he will not spend as much time on the road in this campaign. "We'll have fewer but more important rallies," he said. "We hope to set up regional control points."

Rockefeller said that one of his 1964 shortcomings was failure to be specific enough in his program and he is moving to correct this.

"If we plan our time over the next six months, we'll be able to direct to the appropriate audience position papers that will have meaning to that particular audience insofar as the public as a whole," he said.

Expensive gifts for an occasional date are taboo.

Navigation on Red River Gains Steam

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the Arkansas River navigation project, due to be completed by 1970, has attracted the most attention, Arkansas has another large navigation project which likewise is nearing completion.

This is the 9-foot navigation channel under way on the Ouachita-Black rivers extending from Old River, La., upstream 382 miles to Camden, Ark.

Under the construction schedule outlined by Army Engineers, the Ouachita channel is to be finished and ready for use throughout its entire length by late 1972.

The project involves the construction of four large locks and dams, two in Louisiana and two in Arkansas. The Jonesville and Columbia locks and dams, which are in Louisiana, are to be completed and open for navigation by June 1970.

The Felsenthal Lock and Dam in Arkansas is slated to be open for navigation by March 1972 and the Calton Lock and Dam by September 1972.

When completed the Jonesville lock will have a 30-foot lift, the Columbia lock an 18-foot lift, Felsenthal 19 feet and Calton 12 feet, for a total lift of 79 feet.

The channel is to be 9 feet deep and 100 feet wide for the 382 miles from Old River to Camden. Cost of the project is an estimated $87.4 million, considerably under the Arkansas river development program, estimated at $1.2 billion.

navigation on the Ouachita River for many years — a 6-foot channel. But the traffic has been relatively small and there was a time, some years ago, when the stream barely supported the 6-foot channel.

Traffic on the river's existing channel totaled 215,520 tons in 1957 and by 1964 had increased to 325,360.

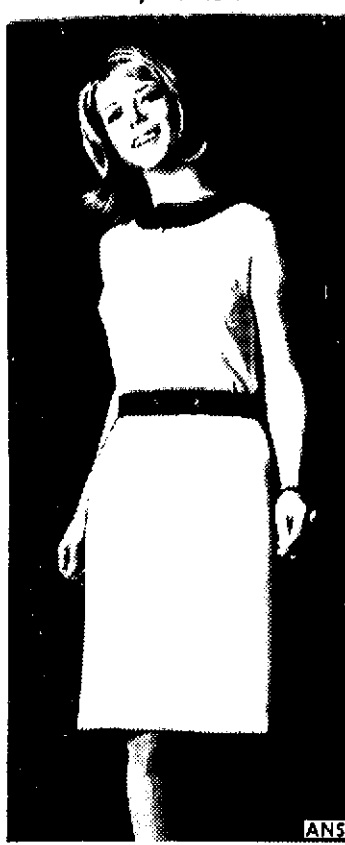

Sponsors of the 9-foot project expect a big jump in water traffic when the work is completed and have visions of an industrial development in south Arkansas rivaling that anticipated for the Arkansas River.

The budget for the year starting July 1 proposes $6.5 million for continued work on the Ouachita project. Sponsors are asking that this be increased to $7.6 million.

The House Appropriations Committee is not due to report out the Public Works Appropriation Bill, which will carry money for this and all other similar projects, until late in June.

The Arkansas River project involves a 9-foot navigation channel from the Mississippi River to Catoosa, Okla. It is due to be completed to Little Rock by 1968, to Fort Smith by 1969 and to Catoosa by 1970.

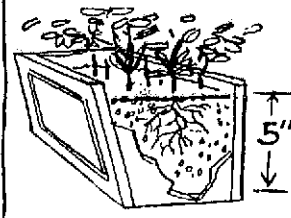

A third navigation project in which Arkansas may have some interest is beginning to pick up steam. That is the Red River project across Louisiana to Shreveport and possibly into Texas. This project has been authorized but never started.

For That Garden in a Box

By Allan and Sheila Swenson

Window boxes have long been used as a major form of house decoration with living plants. Such boxes are especially useful in northern areas where short growing seasons prevent the planting of extensive gardens.

The boxes can be planted early and given protection until frost danger is past, thus giving a good display of flowers over a longer period of time.

Prolonging the flowering season has some value, but we probably use window boxes for other reasons. They give spots of color immediately by using plants already in bloom, particularly valuable for short seasons at summer homes.

Many places lack space for a garden, and window boxes can provide flowering plants to decorate the home. Gardening is concentrated in a small area for easy planting and care.

The window box itself should fit its location either on the window sill or attached to the house. It should be large enough to hold at least a 5-inch depth of soil.

Thursday, May 26, 1966

Basically, the box should be planted with three types of plants. Two or three upright plants—geraniums or fuchsias—give height to the flower mass. Trailing plants, such as vinca or ivy, help to break the lines of the box and give a more graceful aspect. Fill-in plants, such as petunias, dwarf zinnias, begonias and impatiens, make up the rest of the box. Don't crowd the plants; they will grow and fill the spaces.

Window boxes add color, interest and beauty to any home.

Carving Finesse

Take it easy on garnishes when you want to make work easy for the carver. It's important not to be too generous in garnishing, thus leaving room for him to carve the meat.

Whenever possible, garnish on two sides of the platter in "clusters" rather than a "pieced" dab of garnish in several places. It's more artistic and easier to move, when necessary.

Early Printing Inks

In Asia, where the Chinese experimented with printing at least 1,000 years before the time of Johann Gutenberg, printing inks were made from plant substances mixed with colored earth and soot or lampblack, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Syntax Perfume Offset

The girls were discussing the merits of an assortment of perfumes when this eavesdropping bachelor came up with the $64 question:

"Give me an honest answer: Just why do women wear perfume?"

They all started talking at once. . . of course. But the reply that came through for the record was this:

"It's either to hold the man you have or help find another one."

Newspapers have reporters, copywriters, and editors. The public thinks it's the editor who gets out the paper. But newspaper staffs know better. The really important people in the writing department are reporters and copywriters — and probably the most vital one is that little-known fellow the copyreader.

He's the guy who goes through the reporter's copy, corrects spelling and syntax, puts a headline over the story and forwards the material to the shop. When he's good the copyreader can make a newspaper look sharp, and when he's bad the paper is terrible.

A copyreader slipped on the top story in this morning's Shreveport Times and made his paper ridiculous. It was the tragic story of a policeman shot to death by a suspected robber. The sixth paragraph came out in print like this:

"The policeman was killed at the foot of Fourth Street near the Louisiana and Arkansas railroad tracks. He then ran around parked boxcars and made his way into a heavily wooded tract under a viaduct some 300 yards from where he had killed Herriage (the policeman)."

The reporter made an error that is common in fast writing against a deadline. His thinking switched from the policeman to the robber and he started his sentence with an unidentified "He." The copyreader missed the correction. He should have inserted "The robber" for "He" — but it got by him, with tragic consequences for a good newspaper.

Our readers have noted a succession of publishers coming from other states to inspect The Star's new 20-page rotary offset press, the Fairchild News King Model 475. We bought it last September, installed it in December — although the new model wasn't announced in print until this month.

We have had fellow publishers here from Arkansas, Texas, and Mississippi, and at least two of them have bought the same model as ours. Last week brought in another visitor: John J. Schumann, publisher of the 32-page weekly Vero Beach (Fla.) Press-Journal. He is still using the old letterpress system, with a flatbed machine similar to the one The Star sold after 40 years, but he is thinking about converting to offset. He was in Hot Springs taking the baths, and drove down to Hope because of the good-performance reports on our press that had reached him on the east coast of Florida 1,000 miles away.

Has Found Way to Raise Funds

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has found a way to rise above New York City's transportation problems, which have included subway, bus and taxi strikes since he took office Jan. 1.

He is going to fly to and from his City Hall office and Gracie Mansion, the mayor's official residence.

A helicopter pad is being built just off the grounds of the mansion above the East River and should be finished within a month.

Lindsay will then be able to fly from home to the Wall Street heliport near City Hall, cutting his traveling time from about 40 to 15 minutes.

Sentiment Is Strong to Cut NATO Troops

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is strong sentiment in the Senate for reducing U.S. troop commitments to North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

Forty-four senators said they favored eventual withdrawal of a substantial portion of the six U.S. divisions of 225,000 American fighting men massed along the Iron Curtain.

But of this group, only 15 said they would cut U.S. forces to a token level of one division at this time as suggested recently by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The question asked senators was: "Do you believe Western Europe should take over its own primary defenses with U.S. ground troops reduced to a token level. Why?"

Mansfield said in an interview May 16 that Western Europe ought to be taking over its own defenses. He added that a single division would serve as well as six as a token of the United States presence on the continent and as a guarantee of American response to any Communist attack on the West.

Fifteen senators disagreed with Mansfield's position, most of them saying the United States must stand by it steadily commitments to NATO in spite of France's forthcoming withdrawal of troops from the alliance.

Sixteen senators declined to take a public position on the issue, but several of them said privately they favored a gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops.

There is recent evidence of Pentagon support for thinning out U.S. units in Europe. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in a speech last week "the American people are not going to shirk their obligations in any part of the world, but they clearly cannot be expected to bear a disproportionate share of the common burden indefinitely."

Among senators who gave full approval to reducing U.S. forces to a token level, many cited Western Europe's failure to live up to its NATO commitments despite economic prosperity. Several cited the drain on U.S. balance of payments.

In this group were Democratic Sens. Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, Vance Hartke of Indiana, Thomas J. McIntyre of New Hampshire, Wayne Morse of Oregon, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, George A. Smathers of Florida, John J. Sparkman of Alabama, Stephen M. Young of Ohio, and Mansfield.

Republicans included Sens. George D. Aiken of Vermont, Peter H. Dominick of Colorado, and Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii.

Flying Course for Adults Offered Here

There will be a series of adult classes on the principles of flying offered in the Agriculture Building of Hope High School this summer. The Agriculture Department sponsors adult classes of various types year round and because of the current boom in the aviation industry and the large number of people in Hope currently interested in flying, Mr. Buck in cooperation with the newly organized Hope Flying Club has selected the field for next class.

An organizational meeting was held on Monday night, May 23, and it was decided that the class will meet each Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Agriculture Building. There are no fees or tuition and the public is invited to attend any or all of these meetings. This course will be of special interest to those people interested in obtaining their private pilot license, since the course of study is coordinated with the private pilot written exam.

Another U.S. Turncoat Returning

HONG KONG (AP) — Korean War turncoat Clarence Adams arrived in Hong Kong today, leaving only two of 21 self-exiled former American prisoners of war in Communist China.

Adams, from Memphis, Tenn., crossed the Lowu border bridge 23 miles north of the city with his Chinese wife and their children, Louis, 3, and Della, 4. Nicholas Platt, a U.S. consulate official met them at the border and took them to an undisclosed hotel.

The consulate had been expecting Adams since the Chinese notified the Hong Kong Red Cross he would cross the border May 9. But Adams told newsmen he had not planned to leave China until this week.

"I think maybe there was a mistake in the date," he said.

Deny Motion in Insurance Trust Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Clint Jones, state securities commissioner, denied Wednesday a motion for a voting trust agreement requested by the American Foundation Life Insurance Co.

Jones issued a certificate for such an agreement on April 29, but suspended it on May 9 when three American Foundation stockholders objected.

In revoking the certificate, Jones said that he believed American Foundation should have a voting trust, but the legislature had not provided the law for establishing one.

Frank Whitbeck, president of American Foundation, said Jones' ruling would be appealed.

"Before entering upon course we researched the matter thoroughly and we are of the opinion that stockholder of an insurance corporation have just as much right to form a voting trust as the stockholders of any other corporation," Whitbeck said.

Union Won't Accept Scale, Johnson Says

Local 788 with headquarters at Camden is picketing the Johnson Construction Co. which is building the Red River Vocational Training School, south on Highway 29. The local includes Hempstead County.

The union charges that the construction firm is not using union laborers on the job although there are union carpenters working.

Ebb Johnson told the Star yesterday the only reason members of Local 788 weren't being employed is because they wanted $2.25 an hour and he could pay only $2.10 which is the scale the job was bid on and approved all the way to Department of Labor in Washington, D.C.

"In so far as available I employ local common labor wherever I have a job going," Mr. Johnson said, "Local 788 members refuse to work for the scale fixed for this particular job."

Fired Worker Defended by Faubus Men

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Y. W. Wheelchel, fired state Highway Department employee, has been defended by two key men in the administration of Gov. Orval Faubus, Highway Commission Chairman Wayne Hampton said Wednesday.

Defending Wheelchel's actions for his role in the $2.1 million Highway Department pay raise, Hampton said, were state Purchasing Agent Mack Sturgis, former Highway director; and state Budget Director Julian C. Hogan of the Comptroller's Office.

The raises, which were rescinded when they were made public, will be the topic of an investigation by the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee beginning Friday.

Rep. Sterling Cockrill Jr., chairman of the committee, said Sturgis had declined to appear in person before the committee to discuss his role in the pay raises.

Farm Workers Added to the Wage Measure

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of minimum wage legislation ask the House today to reverse a vote removing 1.6 million small firm employees from the bill's proposed coverage.

The vote Wednesday marred a precedent shattering triumph of the measure's supporters, who succeeded in retaining a provision extending minimum wage coverage for the first time to upwards of 400,000 workers.

The bill's backers face another struggle today over an amendment that would delay until 1970 an increase in the minimum wage to $1.60 an hour. The wage now is $1.25 and the bill would boost it to 1.40 next February and to $1.60 in 1968.

The amendment eliminating coverage of 1.6 million employees of small business and industrial firms was adopted by a nonrecord vote of 120 to 109. Under House rules it can be put to a roll call vote before final action on the bill.

Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., the bill's manager, said he will reject such a roll call. He predicted the House would undo Wednesday's action.

Dent is counting on an admitted error in the amendment to help overturn the vote.

The amendment's author, Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., said he intended to block extension of the minimum wage law to workers in 995,000 retail and service establishments doing less than an annual gross business of $500,000. The bill would have dropped the present $1-million limit to $500,000 next year and to 250,000 in 1969.

In drafting the measure, however, Anderson also knocked out 650,000 employees of other businesses, including mining, manufacturing, processing, communications, finance and insurance, that do less than $1 million a year gross business.

The House voted 157 to 149 to reject an amendment by Rep. David T. Martin, R-Neb., to delete the farm provision. The bill would cover farms that employ 500 man-days of labor in any quarter.

The farm worker minimum would start at $1 an hour next Feb. 1, go to $1.15 in 1968 and to $1.30 in 1969. Other newly covered workers would get two additional 15-cent raises, reaching $1.60 in 1971.

Auto Stewart Used Found at Arkadelphia

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Sheriff R. W. Stevenson of Clark County said a burned automobile belonging to Glenn Stewart was found Wednesday near a logging road about 20 miles southeast of here.

Stewart, who is charged with first-degree murder in the dismemberment slaying of Larry Schmidt, 30, of Malon, Ind., told the sheriff Tuesday that he had abandoned the car and burned it.

Also charged with murder is Schmidt's widow, Mrs. Edith Schmidt, 25.

She at first told authorities Stewart had killed her husband and kidnapped her and her two children. Later she said she and Stewart had planned Schmidt's murder.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Wrinkles are inevitable. However, why should a woman give in to creases and crow's-feet hastened by neglect? She needn't.

Wrinkles are something teen-agers and their trivia-playing grandmothers have in common. And both age groups may use the same techniques to ease the problem.

Many bad habits causing facial lines can be eliminated.

These faults include frowning, excessive use of soap and water on normally dry skin, grimacing, raising eyebrows, squinting to see instead of wearing eyeglasses, lip biting and sucking on the inner cheek.

A trick actresses use is to apply adhesive tape on the forehead and between the eyebrows at night to check frowns that line these areas.

Exercise also keeps the facial and neck muscles supple and checks excessive lining due to weakening of the facial tissue. One, for example, is to open and close the mouth like a fish. Also use this position when creaming the face or applying a moisturizing lotion. According to a facial consultant for actors and actresses, facial massage does good only when the skin is held taut. When creaming the neck, tilt the head backward until the skin is tight and stroke upward firmly several times. This helps check neck wrinkles and fights that jowly look.

Fortunately, there are many cosmetics to aid women. Since summer is near, remember to use moisturizers at night and remove make-up thoroughly before applying more. Also, when in the sun, use a suntan lotion with a silicone screen. More and more dermatologists point out the aging effect too much sunning has on a woman's skin. The new sunning lotions and creams allow for some tanning while cutting out a high percentage of the damaging sun's rays.

Use of specially formulated beauty treatments (according to DuBarry cosmetologists) helps a 17-year-old retain a dewy skin, makes the maturing skin look softer and relieves the aging skin of its faded look.

Larger Than A Cattle Drive

BY DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) Clint Eastwood drove back to Hollywood in the fancy new Ferrari he had shipped from Italy to New York.

Eastwood, costar on Rawhide for eight years, struck it very rich in Italy. He made an Italian western—actually it was shot in Spain—called "A Fistful of Dollars," and it became the biggest money-maker in Europe in years. The company quickly followed up with several more and Eastwood is now one of the most important film stars on the European continent.

But he's homesick. He says he has one more Italian commitment, then he'll work here. He and Bob Eaton—Lana Turner's husband—have formed a partnership and they're thinking of making an Eastwood-starrer western.

What homesick Clint Eastwood doesn't know is this—Eaton is hopeful of shooting that film in Australia.

AT 6-FOOT-5, JOHN PHILLIP LAW is a big new star. His first major film is "The Russians Are Coming," soon to be released. But already the snowball has started rolling—Otto Preminger has cast him in the lead in "Hurry Sundown," one of the major productions in '66.

Law is 28 now and no newcomer. He's been knocking himself out for six years. He was a member of Elia Kazan's Lincoln Center Repertory Company—"I had the lead in Kazan's worst flop, 'The Changeling'"—and has done several pictures in Italy.

He's a Hollywood native. His father was a deputy sheriff in West Hollywood; his name was John Law which sort of fits. John Phillip decided he ought to use his middle name professionally to save himself a lot of quips.

He's leaving for the South, where Preminger will shoot "Hurry Sundown," long before the company goes. He wants to get his southern accent authentic, not from any Hollywood vocal coach.

His height hasn't handicapped him, he says, except that it's tough to get into small cars. But once, when he was in a play with Van Johnson, there was a moment.

"Van is pretty big," Law says. "But we had a scene together and, after the first time, Van said to me, 'John, you're a nice guy, but don't ever stand within 20 feet of me on stage again.'"

WILLIAM T. ORR, after 19 years with Warner Bros.—the last nine he headed the television department—has left to free-lance as a producer. He's now working up a property called "Picture of Success," a drama he hopes to get before the cameras sometime soon.

"This is a good time for an independent producer," Orr says. "All you have to do is put together a package—get the script, the stars, the director—and get a studio interested and you're a producer."

Wrinkles—the bane of a woman's existence hit a woman's neck and face normally in sequence. Early tell-tale signs of aging or lack of care start with the neck (top left) in the 20s. It moves on to the puffy eyes (top right) to the extreme frown lines (bottom left) of a woman in her 60s. Many of these neck and facial lines can be held back with proper exercise or camouflaged with contour make-up (bottom right) that fills in the shadows of lines.

If lines have formed, they can be camouflaged with make-up although stepped up facial care can fill in some of them. Contouring make-up, especially, is a boon to lined faces.

Use lighter and darker foundation shades to subtly reshape and sculpture the face. Start with a foundation shade applied with a moistened silk sponge over the entire face and neck. Then apply a shadow shade blended to emphasize the natural shadows in the hollows of the cheeks, beneath the tip of the nose and chin, at the forehead, hairline and beneath the brow bone. A highlighter is touched on to minimize the most lined and puffy areas such as across the middle of the forehead, beneath the eyes, the middle of the chin and along the laugh lines. Smooth this into the foundation and powder gently.

Orr had much to do with creating the current status of television through the programs he produced at Warner Bros. So it's interesting to hear his assessment of today's television.

"Television today," he says, "is all formulaized. And it's very hard to get anything new and different on television today—the networks are unwilling to take a shot at something new. They prefer sticking with the tried and true."

As for the current quality of movies, Orr believes it is good—"except for a shortage of good dramatic material." He thinks most of the movie product is "gimmicky, but good."

Ladies, do not abandon hope. You do not have to be an actress to snag a handsome French actor. In fact, Jacques Bergerac says he will never again marry an actress.

"They can only think of themselves," Bergerac says. "They have nothing left to give anyone else."

Bergerac is a veteran of marriages to Ginger Rogers and Dorothy Malone. He was in town for a few days, visiting his two daughters (Miss Malone is their mother) when he got all this off his great Gallic chest.

"The more successful an actress gets," he says, "the more unhappy she is. When she is not working, she is unhappy. And when she is working, she complains that the part is not good enough or the photographer does not know his job or the hairdresser is ruining her, so she is unhappy."

"I do not know of one happy marriage with a girl who is an actress. Not one."

THERE'S A STORY GOING THE ROUNDS in Hollywood which you'll understand if you're over 35.

Somebody is supposed to have asked Jack L. Warner if he could see Ronald Reagan as governor (Reagan is running this year). J. L. thought for a moment and then said, "No, I don't see Ronald as governor. I see Dennis Morgan as governor—and Ronald Reagan I see as his best friend."

NEVER UNDERESTIMATE a publicity-conscious girl. When Sen. Everett Dirksen, he of the rich baritone, broke his hip, Joi Lansing sent him a wire. She said that while he was laid up he ought to record some duets with her.

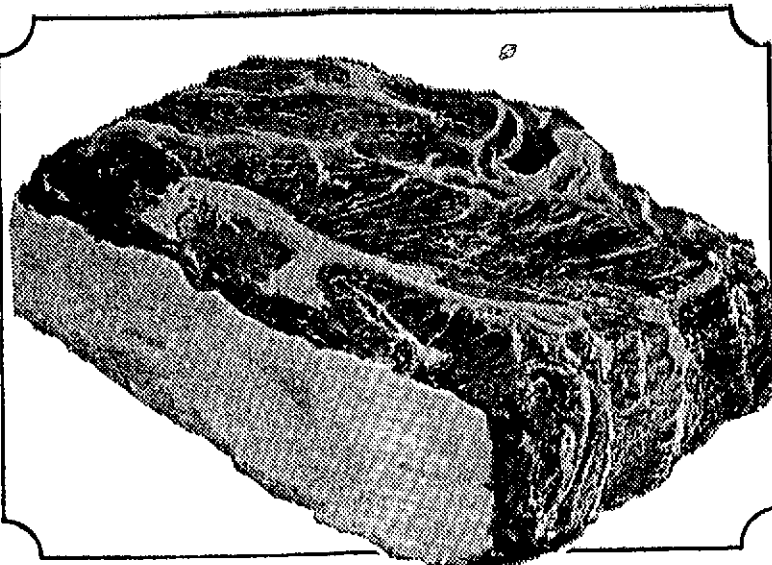

WHEN BATMAN STARTS in England in July, it will be shown in a unique twice-in-one-day schedule. There will be an early showing for children and a late-at-night showing for adults. John Phillip Law's dog has a part in "The Russians Are Coming. The Russians Are Coming," with his master. When Law got the lead in "Hurry, Sundown," he read the script and there was a part for a dog, so he sold Otto Preminger on hiring both of them. Better Homebuilding

By Aileen Snoddy
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It's getting so a woman doesn't know what to take to the church rummage sale. The current craze for "old things" (vintage 1920 through 1949) encourages the compulsive clutter keeper. That 17-inch black-and-white portable television may come back with a Batman ZAP in 10 years.

Unless the home is furnished in authentic antiques or period furniture such as Louis XIV, it is difficult to determine what, for example, is dated and needs replacing.

In spite of this confusion progress does inch its way into home furnishings designs. The coldly utilitarian dinette set is a perfect example. It has seen its last breakfast nook. (Even designers who leaned to the '30s for upholstered furniture at the January market sidestepped reviving designs of this now unattractive chrome unit.)

Furniture for the dining alcove represents a move by designers to integrate this much-used spot into the home decor.

Although still considered dinette furniture, the new tables and chairs prove quite smart. For example, the four-legged traditional table is still available and especially effective in Early American designs. Going beyond reproductions of pieces from that era though are the contemporary designs. These favor graceful pedestal bases in steel or a molded plastic reminiscent of the classic Eero Saarinen pieces. Laminated plastic tops in simulated woods or marbled designs insure long wear and ease of care while comfort is more a keynote of the seating pieces than ever before.

Washable, wearable vinyl still is used on the chairs as is the "old" dinette style but these are available in colorful, well-executed prints and more realistic leather effects. Most comfortable and higher priced units have foam rubber vinyl-covered seats and backs.

What's happening to dinette furniture? It has gone modern but still is at home in a traditional setting. Pedestal-based table and chairs have cleanable chrome finish. Chairs in foam rubber covered in black vinyl swivel white 38-inch round table top is walnut design. Combined with a red on red flocked vinyl wallcovering, the modern dinette set shows the flexibility of decorating in homes today.

These definitely modern dinette pieces, however, do not require a starkly modern setting. They may be used with traditional wallpapers in bold designs or with scenic wallpapers or murals to create the mood desired.

When using a bold design such as a large-scale flocked paper, perhaps in a red on red, add a strip of wood molding as a dado and complete the wall with a matching red shiki silk wallpaper below the molding. Select a plastic-coated wall paper for this area since it is washable. A dado in a dining area adds a substantial feeling to a room. It is especially good when used with a scenic or mural since these are best seen when at eye level.

How can a man be polite if a woman ignores such amenities as opening doors?

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Exactly a year ago today, CBS broadcast its "National Drivers Test," which was carefully dropped in its schedule immediately before the long Memorial Day weekend, a spring holiday which brings a high accident rate.

Since then, the program received numerous accolades, and was rerun shortly before another bad traffic weekend—Labor Day. While no one really knows whether it saved lives, it did give a number of confident drivers some sober second thoughts—when they flunked the test, as many did.

Now, on the threshold of another Memorial Day weekend, CBS will present its second edition of "The National Drivers Test," tonight, 10-11 p.m., EDT. Hopefully, drivers will again take the quiz, grade themselves—and have safe driving on their minds over the three-day holiday period.

"This time," said Bob Chandler, its producer, "we have an entirely new approach. We're taking up driving practices on expressways, for one thing. There will be a small section on simple car mechanics—windshields, flat tires and overheating. There will be an animated section on automobile safety, and a demonstration of how a driver can outrun his headlights at night—driving so fast in the dark that he cannot stop within the distance lighted in front of him."

The television program which has caused more glowing talk than any other of the past season, CBS' fine production of "Death of a Salesman," wound up in the latest national Nielsen ratings report in the 63rd position in a list of 106 programs. It achieved a rating of 15.5 and, in that popularity list was nestled between CBS' "My Favorite Martian" and "Lassie."

By this season's entertainment yardstick, such a rating does not constitute a smash hit since less than one-third of the nation's sets in use at the time were tuned to the Arthur Miller drama. On the name list, NBC's "Bonanza," in first place, had a rating almost twice as large.

Other shows in Nielsen's top 10 were, in order, CBS' Beverly Hills, The Red Skelton Show, The Lucy Show, The Andy Griffith Show, Green Acres, ABC's Bewitched, CBS' special, The Magic of Broad-casting, NBC's The Man from U.N.C.L.E., and The Dick Van Dyke Show.

NBC is already at work on an hour-long program about the wedding of Luci Baines Johnson and Patrick Nugent. It will be broadcast on the day of the wedding, Saturday, Aug. 6, complete with shots of the ceremony itself.

The special will show details of the preparations—White House decorations, food, writing of invitations, the bride's choice of china and silver, and include shots of prewedding parties as well as profiles of members of the wedding party.

Gourmets Love Chicken Surprise

For the wedding breakfast, for a graduation party, for any event calling for a spring-like delicacy, try this recipe for chicken breasts. Quite easy to prepare despite its gourmet appearance and taste.

CHICKEN SURPRISE

(Serves 4)

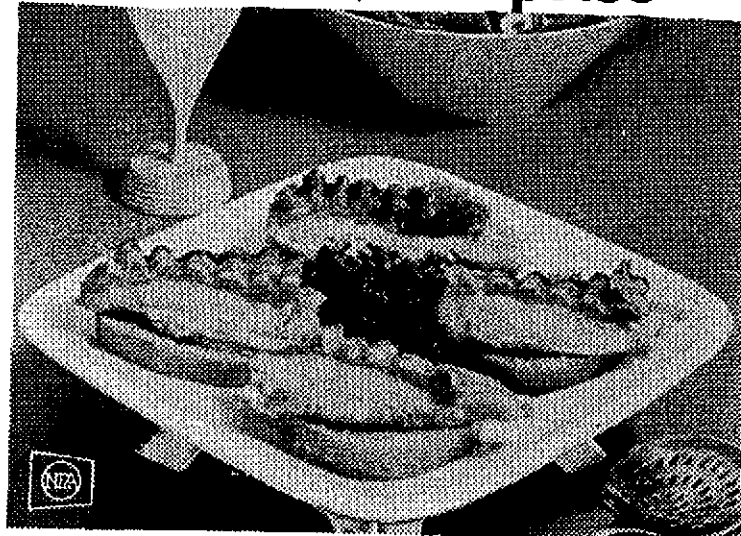

4 chicken breasts (about 1 lb.)

1 large ripe tomato

1 package seasoned coating mix for chicken

4 strips of bacon

Remove skin and bones from chicken breasts. Cut tomato in 4 slices. Coat with seasoned coating mix as directed on package, reserving any remaining mix. Arrange chicken in single layer in ungreased shallow baking pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes. Coat tomato slices with remaining seasoned coating mix; place in baking pan with chicken and bacon strips. Bake 10 minutes longer at 400 degrees, or until chicken is tender. To serve, top each tomato slice with a chicken breast; then top each with a strip of crisp bacon.

This Dinner Rates Five Stars

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Even if you plan to tour America this summer, instead of Europe, you won't be depriving yourself of some of the food France, in particular, is traditionally famous for. The United States, too, has its great restaurants, some with noted European-trained chefs.

Last week we dined with the eight chefs from the eight American restaurants just awarded 5-star status by the Mobil Travel Guide. This guide, carrying on the tradition of the famous Guide Michelin of France, scrupulously rates restaurants throughout the 52 states and District of Columbia on annual impartial inspection. These just honored with the highest rating—"5-stars"—were "21 Club" and Cafe Chauveron in New York, Ernie's in San Francisco, Brennan's in New Orleans, Perino's in Los Angeles, Maxim de Paris in Chicago and in Cincinnati both the Maisonneuve and Pigall's.

Roger Chauveron, proprietor of Cafe Chauveron and his French-born chef, Albert Heintz, prepared a black-tie gourmet dinner to honor their 5-star colleagues and friends. It belied the canard that only France has great restaurants.

Albert Heintz

So loosen your belts, prepare to enjoy yourselves and read on. Here's the way we spent our time between 7 p.m. and 12 a.m.: First, Les Faisies Parisiennes, a procession of silver platters with unbelievably imaginative hors d'oeuvres, served with magnums of French champagne. Next, at table, Les Perles de Buluga sur Glace—prodigal servings of caviar with chopped egg white, yolk and onion, plus more Tattler Blanc de Blanc 1959 champagne. Then, Le Consomme double des Vieux aux Paillettes d'orees—strong, clear chicken consomme with cheese sticks. Les Delices de Brochet Cardinal (quenelles of sole in an amazingly subtle sauce) followed. With this, a fine white wine, Meursault-Genervieres 1961. The main course: heart of filet of beef Lucullus, spread with pate de fois gras, served with artichoke bottoms filled with fresh asparagus tips, and small almond potato balls. The wine here was particularly rare—Haut Brion 1949. Then a Bibb lettuce salad and that rare thing in the United States—perfect Brie cheese.

The dessert, a work of culinary beauty, Le Souffle Glace' Rose-Marie, was rolled in on a cart decorated with sugar flowers. It was a combination of ice cream, fresh raspberries, Framboise Eau-de-Vie (strong raspberry brandy) and spun sugar. The enraptured gourmets applauded and Chef Heintz and Proprietor Chauveron proudly took their bows.

Black coffee, fine cognac, green Chartreuse and congratulations ended this all-American, completely French, 5-Star celebration dinner.

Food for Americans

Enjoy Northwestern Cherries

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

- 2 (3-ounce) packages cream cheese
- 1 cup sour cream
- 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup sliced, blanched almonds
- Fresh cherries and mint, for garnish

Wash, pit and halve cherries. Force cottage cheese through sieve. Blend softened cream cheese and sour cream with sieved cottage cheese. Soften gelatin in 1/4-cup cold water; place over low heat, stir until dissolved. Stir gelatin mixture, salt, lemon juice and almonds into cheese mixture. Fold in cherries. Pour in lightly oiled 1 1/2-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with additional fresh sweet cherries and sprigs of mint.

CHERRY CHEESE CAKE is now in season.

Life may be "a bowl of cherries." But the season is limited, generally extending only from mid-June through July.

Tangy sweet fresh cherries from the Northwest are beginning to appear in quantity in local markets. So have fun while they last.

Eat them as is from a bountiful bowl, use them in fruit cups and in summer coolers, in salads and to brighten desserts.

Here's a cherry cheese summertime salad to add variety and pleasure to warm weather menus.

Poached Pears Produce Pleasure

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

POACHED PEARS SUPREME features chocolate.

Poached pears with chocolate sauce is a very popular dessert offered in many fine restaurants. The combination of fruit flavor and chocolate is particularly pleasing to most tastes.

You may prefer a less complicated version of this de luxe dessert, one much easier to prepare. With the poached pears offer an assortment of boxed chocolate candies, either from the exquisitely designed box itself or in a candy dish, allowing each guest to make his own selection.

This is a good dessert idea for an announcement party or shower. Weight watchers need not be dismayed. A single chocolate contains only about 27 calories.

POACHED PEARS SUPREME (Serves 6)

3 cups water

2 cups granulated sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

2 tablespoons lemon juice

6 Bosc or Florelo pears
Combine water, sugar and vanilla in a saucepan. Boil 10 minutes. Reduce heat. Peel pears and coat them with lemon juice. Add pears to syrup and cook until they are tender, about 30 minutes, depending on the size. Chill pears and syrup. Serve with assorted chocolates.

Fulbright's Phrases Are Mostly Vague

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., has had something critical to say about American foreign policy ever since he first spoke in the Senate with his maiden speech there in 1945.

And his attempt Tuesday to explain his criticism of President Johnson's foreign policy is not the first time he tried to explain what he said after being criticized for saying it.

In that speech 21 years ago, just a few months after election to the Senate, he complained that for more than two decades American foreign policy had been "improvised from day to day."

As chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee now his words got more attention but through the years he managed to get attention and never more so than with his suggestion about President Harry S. Truman in 1946.

As soon as the Republicans gained control of Congress in the elections that year, Fulbright suggested that Truman, who had no vice president, should appoint a Republican to succeed him and then resign.

Truman ignored him publicly, but not off the record, and Fulbright got such a bad reaction that within four days he issued a five-page explanation, saying he had been misunderstood and misinterpreted.

But the explanation was only a repetition of the original statement. He was critical of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's foreign policy, much less critical of President John F. Kennedy's, and then really went to town on Johnson.

Last September he attacked Johnson's use of troops during the revolt in the Dominican Republic last April.

Johnson said nothing and relations between the two men became pretty frigid. But in recent months he has piled criticism upon criticism of Johnson's policy in Viet Nam. Two things in particular got attention:

He wondered whether the United States could "ever overcome that arrogance of power" which in some cases had destroyed other nations; and he called the Vietnamese capital of Saigon an "American brothel."

Johnson still hasn't gone after Fulbright directly but last week in a speech at Princeton he jabbed at the senator indirectly, saying in this century American use of power has meant not "arrogance but agony for all Americans."

The President took another dig the next night at a Democratic dinner with Fulbright sitting nearby. Johnson said he was delighted to be there with so many old friends and "some members of the Foreign Relations committee. When Johnson finished, Fulbright applauded lightly and left.

Then once again Tuesday at the National Press Club Fulbright undertook to explain some of the things he had said — like arrogance and brothel — "Because they lent themselves to interpretations I did not intend."

He suggested the press had not accurately conveyed his ideas. But as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee Fulbright has an enormous responsibility when discussing foreign affairs to take the trouble to express himself so clearly that there is little chance for misunderstanding.

Such is not the case. Historians of the future, if they examine some of Fulbright's recent speeches, will find in them some high-sounding phrases in a vast prairie of vagueness.
